NAVY TO HOLD COLLEGE TRAINING EXAMS DEC. 12

The Navy announced recently that the eighth nation-wide competitive examination for its College Training Program has been scheduled for December 12, 1953, and will be open to high school seniors or graduates within the age requirements. Successful candidates will start their naval careers in colleges and universities across the country in 1954 with substantial assistance. Qualified graduates will be commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and will enter the Fleet as well-trained junior officers, taking their places alongside young officers from other outstanding colleges of the country and the United States Naval Academy.

The program is open to male citizens of the United States between the age of 17 and 21, and quotas have been assigned to each state and territory on the basis of its high school population. Those who are successful in passing the aptitude test will be interviewed and given physical examinations; then, if found qualified, their names will be submitted to state and territorial Selection Committees for final selection. These committees are composed of prominent citizens and naval officers. The Navy expects to enter about 2,000 students into the program commencing with the fall term of college, 1954.

Students finally selected, if accepted by the NROTC college or university of their choice, will be enrolled and appointed Midshipmen, USN. They then receive retention pay at the rate of $50.00 per month to assist in defraying such expenses as board and room. The government pays tuition, the cost of textbooks, and other fees of an instructional nature.

Students commissioned from this program are obligated to serve on active duty for three years and those selected as career officers at the expiration of this period continue their professional growth concurrently with their Naval Academy contemporaries.

Edmond J. Vachon, Senior Master of Gould Academy, who is acting as the Navy's local civilian representative, will be pleased to provide specific information about the program, including the time and place of the competitive examination, the method of making application, and the specific age and scholastic qualifications. Mrs. Addie Kendall Mason

Mrs. Addie K. Mason passed away Wednesday morning at the Norway Convalescent Home, where she had been a patient nearly three months.

Mrs. Mason was born in Bethel, Nov. 10, 1865, the daughter of Daniel Gilbert and Ruth Sophia Kendall. She was educated in Bethel schools and married Seth L. Mason, whose death occurred on July 3, 1923.

Since the death of her husband she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Edmund Smith, the greater part of the time.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Carl Brown and Mrs. Edmund Smith of Bethel; eight grandchildren, 11 great grandchildren, two nieces and a nephew.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Greenleaf funeral home, the Rev. Charles Pendleton officiating. Burial will be in the Pine Grove Cemetery, West Bethel.

What words can we use to pay tribute to her, our kind and faithful friend. For many, many years, she has done so much for all of us. Not showy or spectacular deeds were hers, but the ever ready, never failing kindnesses of day to day living made hers a noble life, and a rich one, too.

Satisfied in the nearness and devotion of her daughters she had the esteem of her sons-in-law to whom she was a mother. Her pride in seven stalwart grandsons and one granddaughter was boundless and reciprocal. As wives joined this circle her love enriched each one. Each great-grandchild was a jewel in her crown of pride and happiness.

Harmonious and clever verses written by A. K. M. have given cheer and solace to hosts. She wrote on gay and grave and historic occasions and her eager public will miss these contributions from her warm heart and nimble pen.

Of pioneer ancestry Mrs. Mason was an authority on early history and Indian lore, and her story-telling sessions were popular. Memory of her humor, sympathy and love will remain long in this, her native and well loved town, and enrich us still.

Sleep well, Brave Heart, Good Night.

FRED LITTLEFIELD

Fred R. Littlefield died at his home in East Stoneham Sunday morning.

He was born in Auburn, May 16, 1882, the son of Alonzo and Lois Littlefield. He was a retired lumberman and had lived most of his life in Albany and East Stoneham.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Clayton Hall, Freeport; a son, Millard of Kentucky; a sister, Mrs. Fred Meserve; two brothers, Jesse and Roland, of Waterford; two grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held at the Greenleaf funeral home, Tuesday afternoon. Dr. William I. Bull of Waterford officiated. Interment was in North Waterford cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Philbrook and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pashley, Scotland, N. Y., spent the week end with Mrs. D. C. Philbrook, who returned with them for a several weeks' visit.

HOLDING BACK PROGRESS

Our nation is rapidly approaching a cross-roads in its economic life. We must either reaffirm our faith in the private enterprise system, and take the measures necessary to preserve it, or decide once and for all that it has lost its usefulness and let it slide further under the control of tax-hungry, highly centralized bureaucratic government. The decision to be made is just that clear. At stake is your prosperity and your freedom.

Most Americans will contend they have made the decision time and again in favor of keeping the private enterprise system and resisting socialization of our economy. That's true. But the government action necessary to make the decision effective for the future has not been taken. Our private enterprise economic system is being robbed of its vitality and the opportunity for adequate expansion by a taxation system rapidly precluding success and thereby the incentive for private investment.

Significant Study

The U. S. NEWS, weekly news magazine devoted to national and world affairs, has just completed an intensive staff study of our economy and the effects of various rates of taxation upon its progress. The researchers noted that in recent years the federal government has dominated the U. S. economy, taking about 25 per cent of the national income in taxes, buying vast quantities of goods and services, and enlarging its own industrial and business enterprises which compete with private business. The conclusions drawn from the study are of vital importance to every citizen. Here is the key conclusion:

"It is going to take drastic changes to taxes if private capitalism again is to work freely and on its own in the United States. A form of state capitalism, with government doing the investing, will have to emerge unless private funds increase."

"State capitalism" as used in this conclusion means socialism.

Tax Incentive Restored
The "corporate" tax in our economic life is just what we need to get the expansion in the production of peace-time consumer goods that will be needed to effect the reduction in the wartime government spending of the last 12 years unless taxes are reduced drastically to restore the incentive for private investment.

"If private capitalism is to take over as Government withdraws," observes the U. S. NEWS, "there will need to be incentives to take risks, rewards promised that will encourage investment. Yet you find that present tax policy, based upon punitive rates, has precisely the opposite effect." It discourages investment. Thus, as government begins gradually to cut the multi-million spending budget and to open a production gap into which private enterprise should expand, the private funds to finance the needed expansion may not be available. Excessive taxes on profits have been driving up the source.

At the Threshold
With almost every existing development, with the advent of atomic energy, with vast industrial facilities, and with our population growing, our nation stands today at the threshold of its most prosperous era. The development cannot be healthy or lasting, however, unless it comes through the normal progress of our private enterprise system. For government to attempt it under "state capitalism" as socialism would mean the destruction of our American way of life and, to them, the loss of our individual freedom. And yet government will take over the job of investment (and restore to create enterprise).

The policies need correcting at once. It is the most important task for the government and the people. The study by the U. S. NEWS shows us to conclude that a uniform tax rate, at a figure low enough to leave the dynamic profit motive, would open the way for changing our living standards within the next living years. And from this broadening and moving

DALE CARNEGIE

★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

AS A BOY of fourteen Charles H. Brantley, Huntsville, Alabama, once made preparations for the annual trip to the boy scout camp. Thirty boys from his home town were making the trip, and they were to meet at a designated place and there board a chartered bus for the trip to camp.

Between Charles' home and the bus were several houses which he had to pass carrying his sack filled with supplies. Since it was Sunday he did not want to be seen carrying that sack, he was afraid of what people might say about him. Very soon a fellow Boy Scout came by and he agreed to carry Charles' sack in addition to his own for five cents.

Such little incidents as that occurred many times in the years that followed, and Charles soon found that his fears were getting the best of him and he was worrying about almost everything. After graduating from high school he enrolled in college twice, only to give some excuse for not attending when the day arrived.

In 1945 he entered the army and was sent to a camp a thousand miles from home. Practically all the men in camp were many miles from home and most of them had worries. Since it was next to impossible to avoid being part of a group at all times, Charles made up his mind that he would make the best of everything. Instead of telling everybody about his own problems, he listened to the other fellow. Since he was willing to listen, nearly all the men eventually came to him with their stories.

His reason for telling this to you is to suggest that you do all you can in any situation, then forget it, for he applied this advice to his own problems and found that it worked.

No longer does he worry about what people think of him, for he is firmly convinced that most people are too busy worrying about their selves to take the time to give him a thought, and if he has done the best he can, worrying about what people might think of him certainly won't make them think any differently.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

The 1954 elections, which will determine the political fate of all the members of the House and one third of the members of the Senate, are more than a year away. But to all practical purposes the campaign is under way. U. S. NEWS & World Report put it, members of both parties are issuing statements, making speeches, holding rallies, working up party organizations, setting up if the voting were to be this year instead of next."

In this early stage of the game, the Democratic leaders are the more aggressive. This is partly much to be expected—the party which is out of power and trying to get back in always carries the battle to the enemy. Another reason for it is found in the character and attitude of Mr. Truman, who is a firm believer in knock-down-and-drag-out tactics so far as political wars are concerned. The kind of tactics which brought him his wholly unexpected victory in 1948.

Actually, of course, Mr. Stevenson is the titular head of the Democratic Party. If he wants the nomination again and works for it, the chances are he will get it. But Mr. Stevenson is not the "give 'em hell" type. He does not see everything in blacks and whites as Mr. Truman does, and he does not argue that the Democrats are all on the side of the angels while all Republicans are the devil's disciples. Indeed, there are a number of fields, foreign affairs being one—where it is hard to find any basic difference between the views of Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Eisenhower. So, when it comes to the heavy fighting Mr. Truman is filling the fullback spot.

An excellent preview of things to come was provided in Mr. Truman's Detroit speech on Labor Day. He gave, unrestricted praise to the achievements of the Democrats during the 1932-52 period, saying, "We stopped wild speculation. We taxed in accordance with the ability to pay. We enacted minimum-wage laws and social-security laws. We helped agriculture and small business. We moved to develop the great natural resources of the country in the interest not of a few exploiters but of all the people. . . . We saw to it that the American labor movement got an even break."

Then, however, he denounced the acts of the new administration in equally unequivocal terms. "The Republicans have not yet brought out their biggest guns to present their case. But the general line they will take is easily detailed. Their principal arguments, in the view of U. S. NEWS, will include the following: Under their leadership the Korean shooting was stopped; they are ridding the government of Communists who infiltrated in great numbers and to high places under the Democrats; they are restoring an honest dollar, and will bring about a balanced budget; states' rights, which were in danger of being totally destroyed by the concentration of power in Washington, are being restored; the socialist trend begun by Roosevelt and carried on by Truman is being stopped and free enterprise encouraged; at long last, integrity is again the symbol of government."

That this campaign will be fought hard goes without saying. The Republican majority in the Senate is tenuous thin, and a switch of but eight seats would give the Democrats control of the House. As of the moment, and largely due to the President's enormous and apparently undiminished personal popularity, the political writers generally are forecasting that the GOP will keep its control, and perhaps somewhat improve its Congressional position. But anything can happen in 13 months.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Charlotte, N. C., Meeklenburg Times: "A bill has been introduced in Congress which would assure to every American citizen that he has a right to join a labor union or not to join as he may see fit, and that he shall not be subjected to any requirements or compulsion in either direction. This certainly ought to be the law in this land. It is to be hoped that those who share conviction will so declare themselves to their representatives in Congress."

Plans, Ill., News: "Government is a poor business man. There is no need to try the experiment here as we can take a lesson from those who have failed in socialism, France, for one, and Britain for another. Socialism is one thing against which we must keep our guard for there is always a crackpot who can paint a beautiful picture with theory, but in practice the canvas is only a lot of smudge."

CONTRARY to my impression readers may have gathered from this column, I do love my wife. There are times, however, when I wish I could lock her in some dark room in a remote corner of the house. One of these urges possessed me last Saturday afternoon.

I was relaxed in my favorite chair with the radio turned to a football game I would have given anything to see when she marches into the room with yards of material.

"Isn't it beautiful," she says. "Sure was," says I. "He kicked out on the one-yard line. Boy, what I would give to have see that."

"I wasn't talking about your old football game," says she. "It's this material, isn't it beautiful."

"Please, honey," says I. "Just be still a minute. Let's see what they'll do."

"Stand up," says she. "I want to drape this on you. Maybe I could get an idea."

"THEY'RE LINING UP IN REGULAR FORMATION. NOTRE DAME IS NOT GOING TO KICK. THERE'S THE SNAP . . ."

"Turn off that thing," says the wife. "Now, let's see."

"THERE'S A FUMBLE AND A BIG TACKLE UP . . ."

"I will not stand up!"

"THEY ARE UNFOLDING. THIS NIGHT WE THE BREAK THAT WILL MEAN THE GAME . . ."

"I stood up and as I did so I barged against the table and the radio. The portable crashed to the floor. There was a squawk and silence."

"Now look what you've caused me to do," I shouted.

"Don't shout at me, you beast," says she. "And besides, I've told you over and over to have the big radio fixed. Serve you right!"

With that she marched out of the room trailing the yards of material. That's when I had the urge to lock her in a dark room.

TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE

Q—What is the current rate of U. S. deliveries of military aid to our allies?
A—During the first half of 1953, deliveries totaled $2,363,000,000 in value, according to Harold E. Stassen, Director of the Foreign Operations Administration. Deliveries reached $1,447,000,000 during the second six months of 1952, and $880 million during the first half of 1953.
Q—When he announced the $2 billion cut in estimated federal expenditures during fiscal 1954, did Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey predict a balanced budget?
A—No. He estimated that the fiscal 1954 deficit will be $3.8 billion. Humphrey said, however, that the Administration will be "well under way" toward balancing the cash budget before next June 30, barring "unexpected" developments.
Q—Which three matters do members of Congress consider the key issues of the second session, which will convene in January, and of the 1954 election campaign?
A—A large majority of the 223 members who voted in a Congressional Quarterly poll tabulated Sept. 4 called Korea the top issue, followed in order by tax reduction and economy in government.
Q—How much legislation was introduced during the first session of the 83rd Congress?
A—Senators and Representatives introduced 10,695 measures, of which 9,900 were bills (public and private) and Joint resolutions, which have the force of law when passed by both houses and signed by the President. Five hundred and fifteen became law. The all-time record for introduction of legislation was set during the two years of the 61st Congress (1909-11), when 44,363 measures bulged the hoppers. So far, the pace of the 83rd Congress is less than half that of the 61st.

THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

WALTER O'KEEFE, the quiz-master of "Wizard of Odds," who knows that the odds can always be beaten, has a bit of advice for the university-bound gal. "A college education can do a lot for a girl," says O'Keefe. "But if it's a husband she wants out of life, she'd better stop and think. Only 70 per cent of college graduates marry, while 90 per cent of high school graduates make the grade in the marital department."

Dean Maclell and Jerry Lewis gave a free show for 1,000 kids who could not get into the Glasgow theater where they played and so chartered a special train to London. Asked how Universal will use him in "The Glenn Miller Story," Jimmy Stewart replied, "Just keep taking off the make-up."

PLATTER CHATTER

CAPITOL:—Instrumentals are the big word right now and Les Baxter's latest called "Elaine," is likely to hit the top. Flip side has "Cornflakes." "Long, Long, Long" is still another, "Carefree" is on the reverse. Tommy Collins does a nice job on "There'll Be No Other," backed by "You Gotta Have a License." "Little Orphan Boy," as done by the Smith Brothers, is touching and well done. "I'm Gonna Sail Away" is on the flip side.

Maine and Connecticut 4-H'ers Win Tractor Operators' Honors

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

This is a lovely scene in black-and-white, but in color it has breath-taking beauty.

Fail in Full Color

When you begin to touch the color of a scene, it is definitely time for us to be outside with our cameras and color film. This glorious production that nature puts on for us at this season every year shouldn't go unrecorded.

No matter what kind of camera you use, there is a color film for it. Color photography is for everyone these days, even for those who remain faithful to a box camera of yesterday.

Making pictures of the fall color serves more than one purpose. True, it will give you some beautiful pictures, either color prints or small transparencies, to show your friends. It will also get you out of doors in the crisp autumn air. It will make you keenly conscious of the real beauty that is all about you because you will be searching for the best spots to make your pictures.

I won't go into details of making the actual exposures because all the information you need is packed with the film. Correct exposure is very important in color picture taking, so be sure to read the simple instructions carefully and follow them closely. Or, you can buy one of the 25-cent exposure guides which will give you reliable exposure data with a twist of the dial.

Here are a few general hints you may find helpful in your fall color shooting. One—don't try to photograph half a county in one picture. Your pictures will be much stronger and more appealing if you feature one tree and use the rest as background. For example, the brilliant red of a maple standing out against the blue of the sky makes a very striking shot.

Clos-ups of leaves that have fallen on the ground in interesting patterns, or that are floating on a pond make good shots, too. If you have a box-type camera, you'd better add a simple close-up attachment for snapping these pictures. If you aren't familiar with these little gadgets, which I think of as giving your camera an eye glass so it can see better close up, check with your photographic dealer for details.

Fall feeding of Maine dairy cows is particularly important because of high milk prices then, possible milk shortages, and the change-over period from pastures to the barn. Plenty of grain and high-quality grass silage fed to cows brought to the barn can help hold production at high levels.

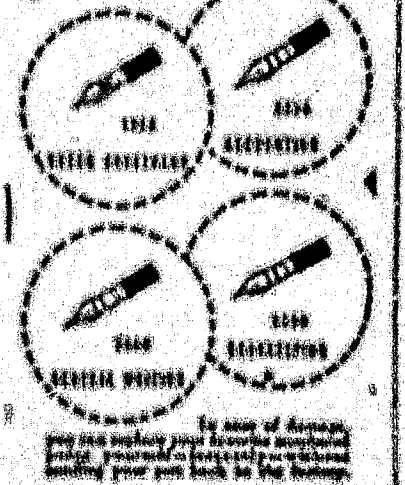

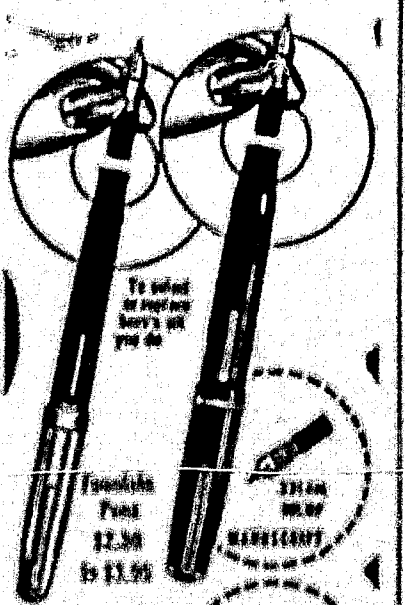

A good packed lunch at noon is important to the health, vitality, and mental ability of a Maine school child. As home demonstration agents of the Extension Service.

GOULD ACADEMY

Gould 13-South Paris 5

Gould Academy had plenty of trouble in registering its second win in as many starts. The much under-rated Paris Cardinals took an early lead and although the visiting line outplayed the Husky forward wall during most of the game, two fine scoring plays from near midfield gave the "Blue and Gold" the verdict.

South Paris scored the opening from the 30 yard line when LeBlanc hit Snow for a long pass. The try for point failed. Moments later, Burnham circled his own right end for a 55 yard touchdown run only to have the play called back because of a clipping penalty on Adams.

In the second period, Burnham passed to Corey who raced to the goal line for the tying counter. It was a 55 yard scoring play. The point after failed and the half ended with a 6-6 tie.

In the third period, Rowe circled his own right end, cut back and sprinted 49 yards for the T. D. that meant the game. Burnham rushed the extra point and the score stood 13-6 which proved to be the final count.

A fine pass defense by Gould proved an important phase of their victory. LeBlanc's accurate passes were time and again knocked down just before getting into the hands of Paris receivers.

Paris scored 10 first downs to 8 for the winners. Both teams re-

CHECK BIKES CAREFULLY

AN DAYLIGHT HOURS SHORTEN "Take time to check that youngster's bike thoroughly," advises Captain John deWinter, Director, Division of Traffic and Safety, Maine State Police.

Captain deWinter points out that, with the seasonal shortening of daylight hours plus the shift back to Standard Time, many youngsters will be doing more riding during twilight hours and hours of darkness. "It will be time well-spent to check carefully on the safety equipment of your child's bike," he advised. "Be especially careful to see that the bicycle is properly equipped for driving after dark. If you allow the youngster to ride his bike during the evening hours, make certain that the headlight is in first-class working order, that there is an adequate reflector on the rear, and, if possible, that the bike is outlined with reflector tape."

He suggested that parents be very strict in this insistence that youngsters comply with all safety rules and that they deprive him of the privilege of using his bike, if he shows any inclination to disregard these rules.

All young people in Maine between the ages of 10 and 21 are eligible to take part in 4-H Club work in agriculture and home-making. In 4-H they will learn "to make the best better."

Parents' Day, October 10

The largest number of parents ever to assemble for the annual Parents' Day is expected to participate in the activities on the Gould Academy campus this coming Saturday. Parents will register upon arrival with the various secretaries of the Gould classes of which their son or daughter is a student.

A football game between Gould and Norway will be played on Alumni Field at 2:00 p. m. and it is expected to be a thriller, based on past records of each team.

During the day, a special exhibit of the work done by the members in the Camera Club will be on display in the Holden Hall camera room. All visitors will find it very worthwhile to visit this exhibit.

Following the football game, the students will hold a dance in Holden Hall and the parents will meet for a get-together in William Bingham Gymnasium. Refreshments will be served in each place and the social gathering will provide an opportunity for students, teachers, and parents to get together.

At 5:30 a buffet supper for all parents will be served in the Holden Hall dining room.

In the evening, a special program will be presented in William Bingham Gymnasium at 7:00 p. m. The schedule of events follows:

7:30 p. m. General Dancing.
8:00 p. m. bow. The public is cordially invited to attend.

A special assembly program is planned for Tuesday, October 13, when George Matthews, noted Negro tenor, is expected to present a program of classical and folk music. Mr. Matthews has schooled his naturally fine voice through the Detroit Institution of Musical Art and the Eastman School of Music. It is not known just what time of the day Mr. Matthews will be present at Gould but an announcement will be made to this student body as soon as it is determined. All persons interested in hearing Mr. Matthews' concert are cordially invited to attend.

C. James Colville, Director of Admissions at Nason College, Springville, Maine, called at the Academy on Tuesday to talk with students interested in Nason.

Members of the Junior Class have elected the following officers for the school year 1953-1954: President, Curtney Mead, Bartlett, N. H.; Vice President, Dianne Watson, Kears Falls; Secretary, Judith McIntyre, Wareham, Mass.; Treasurer, Ruth Mordcau, Newlon, Mass.

An interesting film entitled, "Ski Tips," was shown in assembly on Tuesday morning through the courtesy of the Aetna Life Insurance Company. The colored film depicted ski scenes in various sections of New Hampshire which were very familiar to many of the Gould students. Lowell Thomas, well-known narrator and news commentator presented valuable tips, not only on the art of skiing, but in first aid methods to be employed for injuries that may occur in the sport.

At a special assembly Wednesday morning, John Carter, State Senator and Trustee of Gould Academy, addressed the student body on the subject of politics as a vocation. Mr. Carter entered the State Legislature seven years ago as a member of the House of Representatives and served as the Senator from this area during the last legislature.

Mr. Carter pointed out that the position of State Legislator is not a highly remunerative one and that most holders of seats in this body hold office at a great personal financial sacrifice and do it as a public service. He pointed out to the students that there is one significant difference between the procedure used in town and state bodies for the appropriation and expenditure of monies. In town af-airs, appropriations are made by the vote of the citizens and this is followed by the establishment of the tax rate for raising suitable amounts to take care of expenditures. In the State Legislature, certain amounts are established and various committees must work within the limitation of those allotments in setting up their programs.

Mr. Carter said further that a state legislator must always have in mind the benefit of all people in the state rather than a few in sectional areas when considering all actions on proposed bills. He expressed concern about the growing of various pressure groups which have come into existence during the past few years and expressed his opinion that these groups, as well as the legislators, must realize the practice is not for the best interest of all. Most legislation, he added, comes about by a compromise of various opinions contributed by several people. He emphasized that human relations and cooperation are important factors in doing a good job.

Mr. Carter has served as a member of the Legislative Research Committee which meets during the interim period to study various subjects and make recommendations.
